About the Weddin Community Native Nursery

Weddin Community Native Nursery is a not-for-profit organisation managed by volunteers, and is a sub-committee of Weddin Landcare Steering Committee

We specialise in propagating plants of the Weddin Shire.

Most volunteers have completed a TAFE Certificate 3 in Conservation and Land Management and continue to update their skills.

The volunteers are involved in seed collection across the shire. At the nursery they propagate the cleaned seed, as well as cuttings and divisions.

Our stock includes:

Trees - Eucalypts – yellow box, mugga iron bark, river red gum, cypress pines, casuarinas and kurrajongs.

Shrubs – wattles, hopbush, indigofera, cassias, nodding blue lily and tea trees.

Groundcovers – Tall sedge, spiny rush, native violet, amulla and hardenbergia.

A unique selection of native garden plants is also available.

Are you doing a revegetation project?

Do you want to increase diversity on your farm with tree plantings?

Do you own a bush block that needs some native plant revegetation?

Are you interested in encouraging native habitat for our local birdlife?

Would you like a water-wise garden that includes plants suited to our local environment?

Then the Weddin Community Native Nursery is able to help you!

Our volunteers can help with:

- * Plant identification
- * Plant selection
- * Planting location
- * Plant care
